Yankees won't pursue Johnny Damon

CLEARWATER, Fla. -- Forget about a Johnny Damon, Part II, happening in the Bronx this year.

New York Yankees GM Brian Cashman put a pretty definitive "No" on the idea that Damon could serve as a short-term replacement for the injured Curtis Granderson on Tuesday, saying, "It's just not something we're going to pursue."

Damon lobbied for the job on ESPN New York 98.7 FM's "The Michael Kay Show" on Monday, offering to play for the minimum major league salary.

"Have me for six weeks and send me on my merry way," Damon said.

But Cashman dropped the hammer on that idea after the Yankees lost to the Phillies 4-3 on Tuesday afternoon.

"He's just not going to fit our needs," Cashman said. "It's the same reason we didn't bring him in last year. We need somebody who can play the outfield every day."

Cashman repeated he would try to fill the vacancy from within the organization, with veterans Matt Diaz and Juan Rivera and possibly one of the kids: Melky Mesa, Zoilo Almonte, Ronnier Mustelier or Adonis Garcia.

"We're going to evaluate what we have in camp," Cashman said. "I'm not looking outside at this stage. My first response, always, to a loss, is to make sure we don't have what we need right here in front of us."

Cashman said he had not been contacted by Damon, but had received a text from Scott Boras inquiring about the Yankees' interest, if any, in his client.

"I responded to him the same way I responded to you guys," Cashman said.

Damon came to the Yankees in 2006 after having been a member of a Boston Red Sox team that overcame an 0-3 deficit in the 2004 ALCS and went on to win its first World Series in 86 years.

Damon, 39, batted .285 with 77 home runs in four seasons as a Yankee and his .364 batting average in the 2009 World Series was instrumental in the Yankees winning their 27th world championship.

But he and the Yankees parted ways that offseason. In the ensuing three seasons, Damon's batting average declined from .271 with the Detroit Tigers in 2010 to .261 with the Tampa Bay Rays in 2011 to .222 with the Cleveland Indians, who released him midway through the 2012 season. He has been a part-time outfielder since 2009.

"Listen, I love Johnny Damon," Cashman said. "He was a great Yankee, has a World Series ring to show for it, and it was a good marriage while we had it. But that was a while ago."

Mike Trout's girth doesn't faze boss

TEMPE, Ariz. -- Mike Scioscia's daily media briefing Tuesday might as well have been sponsored by Jenny Craig.

Los Angeles Angels center fielder Mike Trout, the 2012 American League Rookie of the Year and runner-up to Miguel Cabrera in the MVP race, weighed a reported 241 pounds upon arrival at spring training -- about 10 to 15 pounds heavier than last season.

The increased bulk has earned Trout some jibes on Twitter and sparked some concern among fantasy owners that his speed game might suffer as a result. It has also been a topic of discussion among bloggers and sports talk radio callers in Southern California.

But his manager is unfazed. As Scioscia told reporters at Tempe Diablo Stadium on Tuesday morning, Trout's young body is still evolving.

"He's 21 now, so the weight is not a concern," Scioscia said. "You don't know how much a body is going to fill out. He's running great. He feels great. He's not too far from where he played last year. Everything he has is muscle. His body [composition] is still terrific, from what the trainers tell me.

"If a player is 28 and he comes in a little heavier, it's probably more of a concern. These young kids in our lineup are still growing -- particularly the kids from Latin America. They'll start to fill out quicker because of diets and strength and conditioning."

Trout addressed the issue during his introductory news conference with teammates Josh Hamilton and Albert Pujols on Valentine's Day. He said he typically loses 5-10 pounds in spring training, so he made it a point to come to camp a little heavier.

"I know where I need to be to start the year," Trout said.

Trout will be a pivotal player in the Angels' bid to rebound from a disappointing season and make the playoffs. Last year, despite adding Pujols to the lineup through free agency, the Angels started 7-15 and never fully recovered. They finished third in the AL West at 89-73 and fell short of the postseason.

Trout hit .326 with 30 homers, 129 runs scored, 49 stolen bases in 54 attempts and a 10.7 wins above replacement despite getting off to a slow start because of illness and injury. He dealt with a bout of shoulder tendinitis and a virus that sapped him physically for much of spring training.

"Mike had this viral thing and he was 20 pounds lighter. I wish some of us could get it," Scioscia joked. "I'd take that 20-pound virus for a couple of days. But it hasn't come around my way yet."

LeBron James has 40 points, 16 assists as Heat win 12th straight

MIAMI -- Heat coach Erik Spoelstra summed up the efforts of LeBron James and Dwyane Wade in three words: "Video game numbers," he said.

Both put up monster stat lines.

And Miami needed them.

James scored 40 points and added a career-high 16 assists, Wade had 39 points, and the Heat pushed their winning streak to 12 games by outlasting the Sacramento Kings 141-129 in double overtime on Tuesday night.

"Some great stat lines tonight," James said. "But I'm happy I was able to do what I did and help our team win."

Great stat lines might be calling it an understatement. Consider:

- A season high in scoring for James, who capped off the best shooting month of his career.
 - A season high in scoring for Wade, who tied a career best with 19 field goals.
 - A 36-point night for the Kings' Marcus Thornton, the most by any non-starter in the NBA this season.
 - The 141 points tied a Heat franchise record, set in 1991.
 - Add James' assists to the mix, and he put up the NBA's first night of at least 40 points and 16 assists since April 1994. The man who did it then? None other than Phoenix guard Kevin Johnson, now, ironically enough, the mayor of Sacramento. And for February, James finished 139 for 217 from the floor, that 64.1 percent clip the best of his career for any month.
- "It was a great atmosphere," said Thornton, who made 11-of-18 shots, including 8 of 12 from 3-point range. "To be able to take that team to two overtimes just shows the testament of us growing. A team like that -- championship team -- they play great together. Obviously, I hate losing but it was a great effort by us."

Ray Allen added 21, Chris Bosh finished with 15 and Chris Andersen had 10 for the Heat, who remained six games clear of second-place Indiana in the Eastern Conference standings.

Miami's 12-game winning streak is the longest in the NBA and matches the second-longest in franchise history.

Tyreke Evans scored 26 points for Sacramento. DeMarcus Cousins finished with 24 points and 15 rebounds, John Salmons added 15 and Isaiah Thomas 14 for the Kings, who lost their sixth straight.

"They've got a couple of guys that can turn the notch up pretty quickly," Kings coach Keith Smart said. "LeBron and Dwyane played an incredible game. It took a Superman-type game from both of those guys."

Smart said before the game that sometimes "great teams get a little bored with the regular season and they need something to get them going."

The Heat didn't seem to be bored by the second overtime.

After a late non-call that James wanted, he simply seemed mad.

James scored inside to open the second extra session, yelling "and one" at referees as his way of insisting he was fouled as well. But after one sensational sequence, the game was pretty much sealed.

Thornton had a chance to give the Kings the lead after a Heat turnover, but his shot at the rim was blocked by Wade, who came down and set up James for a 3-pointer -- a five-point swing, in essence, and the Heat had a 131-127 lead. James scored again, then added two free throws and found Bosh for a dunk and 10-point lead with 1:29 remaining.

"It's tough but this is a loss I consider a good loss," Cousins said. "Our effort tonight was incredible. We come out and play like that every night, we can beat a lot of teams."

Sacramento fell to 1-17 against Miami since March 2004.

James was perfect in the second overtime: 3-for-3 from the field, 4-for-4 from the line. He had more points (11-5), rebounds (3-0), and assists (3-1) in the final five minutes than the Kings had combined.

"No matter what their record is, they made plays just like us. They gave everything they had and more," James said.

The Heat missed key free throws late in both regulation and the first overtime -- Wade missing a pair with 21 seconds left in the fourth, and James missed one of two with 29.3 seconds left in the opening extra session.

Those two free throws were the only ones Wade was awarded all night.

"I knew we came out a little flat and they came out so free," Wade said. "So I told myself to be a little aggressive and kept us afloat a little bit. And in the overtime, LeBron got going a little bit. We kept going to him and he delivered."

In the first OT, the Kings had a chance for the late lead and potentially the win, but Thomas had a layup blocked by Bosh, and Allen grabbed the rebound for the Heat with 5.7 seconds left.

Miami put the ball in Wade's hands, and he found James near the basket. James' shot missed, and he complained he was fouled by Salmons on the attempt. Referees disagreed with that, but after a lengthy review to determine possession, they awarded Miami the ball with 0.4 seconds remaining. It was much ado for nothing, as Bosh's shot sailed long and the teams went to double overtime.

The game was tied at 92 midway through the fourth before Wade -- with six points and an assist -- led a 13-4 run that looked like it would give Miami breathing room. Miami was up 105-96, and still led 112-104 when James scored with 1:40 remaining.

Sacramento roared back, scoring the final eight points of regulation. Thornton hit a pair of 3-pointers, the second coming with 23 seconds left to get the Kings within 112-110. And after Wade missed a pair of free throws, Cousins grabbed an offensive rebound and laid it back with 8.5 seconds remaining to knot the game at 112-all.

Out of a timeout, the Heat went to Wade, whose step-back 20-footer bounced off the rim as time expired, sending it to overtime.

They were just getting started. And when it was over, the Heat streak survived.

"We're coming together," James said. "We're doing it the right way. We're executing offensively. We're sharing the ball. And we're not getting rattled. We've been in some crazy games. We just stay the course and figure out a way to get the victory."

Mi ta kere cu e inversion cu a wordo haci di mas o menos 1 miyon Florin, pa e facilidad di screening di maleta, ta crea servicio na e usuario cu no tin nodo di piki maleta dos biaha, por atrae mas tanto di e tipo di negoshinan aki pa aeropuerto di Aruba", Minister Otmar Oduber a duna di conoce. Pa loke ta trata e di dos proyecto, e mandatario a duna di conoce cu un di e manehonan cu a wordo estableci desde 2009 tabata pa mira Aruba crece pa loke ta trata e servicio di charter, particularmente for di Venezuela. E tempo ey tabatin e restriccinnan di Gobierno Venezolano cu no tabata permiti e vuelonan aki y cu a conduci cu na 2009 Aruba a perde mas cu 5 mil stul. Cu insistencia na 2010 a logra bolter e pensamiento cu tabatin pa cu Aruba, mercado di charter a habri bek for di Venezuela. "Awe, e proyecto aki tabata un consecuencia natural di dje. Para pa mira un expansion di un aeropuerto cu cada biaha cu tin Semana Santa of un puente na Venezuela nos ta core bin akinan pasobra sea nan ta cera nos aeropuerto, contra nos voluntad tin biaha, tin biaha nos mes ta cerele pa motibo di e trafico pisa. Pami awe ta un alegria di mira un inversion di casi 20 miyon Florin cu ta wordo haci cu forza propio di aeropuerto di Aruba, pa expansion di algo cu Gobierno tambe ta haya hopi importante, cu a conoce un desaroyo sumamente positivo y cu a conduci tambe como cifran-an di Venezuela en particular di riba 28% den ultimo 2 aña y mey", Minister Oduber a expresa. E expansion aki lo trese cune cu lo bay tin un total di 25 posicion adicional na e parti zuid di aeropuerto pa avionnan por para, lo cual ta un adelanto hopi grandi pa loke ta trata General Aviation, specialmente den e periodonan druk.

Intencion awor aki ta pa bay Brasil y otro mercadonan pa usa Aruba como un puente pa nos isla gana cune. "Mas avion y avioneta yega Aruba ta significa cu mas turista nos tin cu ta contribui na nos pilar economico", Minister Otmar Oduber a duna di conoce.
